CSHB 157 ON SECOND READING
(by Krusee, Mercer, and Gattis)

CSHB 157, A bill to be entitled An Act relating to the powers and duties of a regional mobility authority.

CSHB 157 - STATEMENT OF LEGISLATIVE INTENT

REPRESENTATIVE Y. DAVIS: Chairman Krusee, I just want to have a conversation with you regarding this bill because, as you know, in Dallas we have a TTA. How will this RMA interact or how does it impact the North Texas Toll Authority?

REPRESENTATIVE KRUSEE: It will not impact it in any way whatsoever. The commissioners courts in your region would have to approve the creation of a regional mobility authority for this to have any impact.

Y. DAVIS: Okay. So, because we have, I guess, if we have a toll authority, do we have to create a regional mobility or can you create a regional mobility as well?

KRUSEE: You could apply. If your commissioners courts wanted to, they could petition the commission to do one. But you have a regional toll authority, there really doesn't exist a reason to do a regional mobility authority. This is, right now, for the Austin region. I think Bexar is thinking about doing one. But this really doesn't affect the RTA in Dallas.

Y. DAVIS: Okay. The other question I want to ask is relative to RMAs. If we were to do an RMA in the Dallas region, would we have to eliminate our toll authority, could they coexist, or would one take over the other? I know there's a bill filed, and I'm not talking about the bill. I just want to talk about how they would interact.

KRUSEE: They could coexist. They could coexist legally, yes. I doubt that the commission would authorize the creation of a regional mobility authority in an area that already had a regional toll authority.

Y. DAVIS: The other question I had with regard to the RMAs, are we talking about creating toll roads that now are not existent? Would we be creating, would these RMAs be identifying new toll projects or toll roads?

KRUSEE: Yes, we are.

Y. DAVIS: If we do that, if we were to authorize a new toll road in Dallas, for example, or an RMA in Dallas, could an RMA create a new toll project in Dallas outside of our NTTA?

KRUSEE: If you created an RMA, it could then do that, yes.

Y. DAVIS: Who would appoint the RMA board? How would that work? Who has jurisdiction?

KRUSEE: The RMA board is appointed by the commissioners court and then the chairman is appointed by the governor. An RMA may not be created unless the commissioners court of every participating county votes to petition the commission.

Y. DAVIS: Okay. So there is an election required by the commissioners, the commissioners have to want an RMA? Is that right?

KRUSEE: Yes, they do.

Y. DAVIS: And they would have an, each commissioner would have an appointment and the governor would appoint the chair of the RMA? So it would be a five member board?

KRUSEE: It's up to the discretion of the counties—of the participating counties.

Y. DAVIS: Okay. Would it be one county or two counties? An RMA, could it be one or would it be more?

KRUSEE: It may be as many counties as wish to participate.

Y. DAVIS: Okay. So the other question I want to know about with regard to debt is, RMA was created in Dallas and NTTA already is in debt in Dallas. Would we be authorizing more additional bond debt in our region? Would an RMA be able to do that?

KRUSEE: Well, the debt could not be commingled. But the RMA could issue revenue bonds based on the toll project they were proposing. But they could not get any revenue from the existing toll roads in Dallas that the RTA controls.

Y. DAVIS: These RMA projects, does there have to be an election from the area, the region, regarding the project?

KRUSEE: No, there doesn't. The commissioners courts decide on the projects and they apply to the commission for approval.

Y. DAVIS: And then is a county then responsible for the debt?

KRUSEE: The county is not responsible for the debt. The debt is paid for with revenue from the toll road.

Y. DAVIS: From the toll roads?

KRUSEE: The county does not assume any debt whatsoever.

Y. DAVIS: And how do we determine which projects, when I served on transportation one of the things that was consistently drummed up is that the toll project, we would be able to identify which projects were toll projects and which ones were not. Who's going to make the determination when a project is a viable toll project?

KRUSEE: That would be up to the board of directors of the regional mobility authority and then they would have to get approval; someone would have to be willing to sell the bonds and TxDOT would also have to approve.

Y. DAVIS: Now TxDOT has, would TxDOT keep some oversight over the RMAs? What would be their oversight on these RMAs? Are they independent of the department?

KRUSEE: The RMAs are not independent of the commission, and the commission must approve their projects.

Y. DAVIS: So, the transportation commission versus the department, is there any relationship between the department and the RMAs? Is there any relationship between the department or is it just with the commission?

KRUSEE: The department would also have to approve.

Y. DAVIS: The department would have to approve the project. So would it flow through the department? The scenario is that the county commissioners would want an RMA; they would then have a project that they want done. Do they submit it to the state, to TxDOT, and TxDOT approves it for RMA, or does the RMA say, "we're doing this" and the commission approves it?

KRUSEE: The RMA requests permission from the commission, and the commission must approve.

Y. DAVIS: I'm sorry. Not the county commission. You're talking about the transportation commission, right?

KRUSEE: Yes. The transportation commission must approve any projects that the RMA does. The RMA is controlled by the county commissioners courts who appoint the directors.

Y. DAVIS: Now, is this outside of the department? I'm trying to understand. One of the things we did with the Texas Turnpike Commission was we placed them under the department so there would be some oversight and some coordination relative to projects; and I'm wondering, are we still leaving that coordination in place as it relates to the overall plan for mobility for the state?

KRUSEE: The commission has promulgated rules which apply to whether a project is approved or not. So, those rules are applied by the department.

Y. DAVIS: So the RMA would still have to submit their project, and it would have to be on a scope—one of the things we passed last session was that the department was to do a strategic plan to determine what our needs were as a state and how best to accomplish that. Is RMA a part of that? The department was suppose to identify a strategic plan and approach to determine what our needs were for mobility in the State of Texas and how to accomplish that. And I'm wondering, does RMA fit into that cycle of discussion?

KRUSEE: I don't know the answer to that.

Y. DAVIS: Okay. And, I guess the other question I would have, Chairman Krusee, relative to this: do we ultimately get to a deal where we are having RMAs competing with the department and/or the NTTAs of the world?

KRUSEE: No. There would be no competition between the two.

Y. DAVIS: So we don't envision RMAs coming up with projects that would compete with toll authority for their respected areas that may have already been identified?

KRUSEE: No, that will not happen.

Y. DAVIS: So the RMA would not necessarily do the Trinity Project that we have been discussing in Dallas that had some problems? We wouldn't be looking at an RMA to circumvent—

(2) On page 2, line 19, between "Section 16.053 (d)" and the comma, insert "and (e)"

(3) On page 3, after line 9, insert the following:

"(e) Each regional water planning group shall submit to the board a regional water plan that:

(1) is consistent with the guidance principles for the state water plan adopted by the board under Section 16.051(d);

(2) provides information based on data provided or approved by the board in a format consistent with the guidelines provided by the board under Subsection (d);

(3) identifies:

(A) each source of water supply in the regional water planning area in accordance with the guidelines provided by the board under Subsections (d) and (f);

(B) factors specific to each source of water supply to be considered in determining whether to initiate a drought response; and

(C) actions to be taken as part of the response; ~~[and]~~

~~[(D) information on water pipelines and other facilities that can be used for water conveyance, including, but not limited to, currently used and abandoned oil, gas, and water pipelines, as provided by board rules and guidelines;]~~

(4) has specific provisions for water management strategies to be used during a drought of record;

(5) includes but is not limited to consideration of the following:

(A) any existing water or drought planning efforts addressing all or a portion of the region;

(B) certified groundwater conservation district management plans and other plans submitted under Section 16.054;

(C) all potentially feasible water management strategies, including but not limited to improved conservation, reuse, and management of existing water supplies, acquisition of available existing water supplies, and development of new water supplies;

(D) protection of existing water rights in the region;

(E) opportunities for and the benefits of developing regional water supply facilities or providing regional management of water supply facilities;

(F) appropriate provision for environmental water needs and for the effect of upstream development on the bays, estuaries, and arms of the Gulf of Mexico and the effect of plans on navigation;

(G) provisions in Section 11.085(k)(1) if interbasin transfers are contemplated;

(H) voluntary transfer of water within the region using, but not limited to, regional water banks, sales, leases, options, subordination agreements, and financing agreements; and

(I) emergency transfer of water under Section 11.139, including information on the part of each permit, certified filing, or certificate of adjudication for nonmunicipal use in the region that may be transferred without causing unreasonable damage to the property of the nonmunicipal water rights holder;

(6) identifies river and stream segments of unique ecological value and sites of unique value for the construction of reservoirs that the regional water planning group recommends for protection under Section 16.051;

(7) assesses the impact of the plan on unique river and stream segments identified in Subdivision (6) if the regional water planning group or the legislature determines that a site of unique ecological value exists; and

(8) describes the impact of proposed water projects on water quality."

Amendment No. 1 was adopted without objection.

Amendment No. 2

Representative R. Cook offered the following amendment to HB 1378:

Amend HB 1378 by adding the following appropriately numbered SECTION of the bill to read as follows and renumbering SECTIONS appropriately:

SECTION _____. Section 16.012, Water Code, is amended by adding Subsection (n) to read as follows:

(n) Information collected by the executive administrator for use in the development of groundwater availability models under Subsection (1) that reveals site-specific landowner information is not subject to Chapter 552, Government Code, and may not be disclosed to any person if the landowner has requested that the information be confidential. The executive director or the executive director's designee shall advise the landowner of the right to request that the information be confidential under this subsection when the permission is request from the landowner to conduct groundwater studies or surveys on the landowner's property. If the landowner requests that the information be confidential, the executive administrator may release information regarding groundwater information only if the information is summarized in a manner that prevents the identification of an individual, including the landowner, or specific parcel of land. This subsection does not apply to a parcel of land that is not privately owned.
